How Can I Help?

I call this the Love and Justice issue because, while I’m plugging my new book The Grace of Redefining Love (read an excerpt below) — I feel so strongly that all across the globe, we are connecting with each other to spread positive and useful information. Click on links above, below and to the right to discover resources, websites and articles that help — lift our hearts higher. Namaste!

The Grace of Redefining Love

“Through writing, my intention is to share my learning process. To offer up a journey, with life lessons, maybe in a way that you and I can look back later with good question — in clarity and with connection. This is a life experience and the words channeled through it. I hope it helps.”

The concept of REDEFINING LOVE began in 1995 while working on a music project I titled Inter-Dimensional Love. The title written on plain white paper and pasted on a cassette, still sits in a box in my closet.

When I look back, the lyrics in the songs I wrote suggest love beyond labels — they are about a creative and healing love, vibrating higher than romantic longing or material gain. So began a journey I could never have imagined.

Writing my book Merging Worlds in 2015, along with other creative works like Hero and Because Everything Speaks, I began to see that Divine Love, Possibility, Inclusive and Global Thinking had emerged as very determined and consistent themes.

Today — great artists and thought leaders, poets and musicians, scientists and philosophers are gathering and sharing minds — it seems likely that whatever we call it — Conscious Love, Evolving Love, Inter-Dimensional Love, Divine Love — all names are revealing the same — We are ONE energetically with ALL things.

We are REDEFINING LOVE.
